Depending on the type of project you are working on, one of the first things you need to decide is how to schedule the project. It makes sense to start with the actual date you will begin work. You can then determine the days of the week you will begin the project and how long the project should take. For example, you can determine that you will start on Sunday and the project should take 5 days to complete. If you are working on a 10 week project, all you need to do is to determine that you will work 50 days and then enter the actual start and end dates for the project. In this way, you will have the number of days you will spend working on the project and the hours you will spend working on the project.
